Background Information on Hyperinflation Accounting

CONTEXT

- In a hyperinflationary economy, the currency loses purchasing power.
- Hyperinflationary accounting aims to show the Financial Statements in real terms, allowing for a proper comparison with previous periods.

WHEN TO APPLY IT?

- According to IAS 29, the need to adopt hyperinflationary accounting is determined by the economic environment. Among others, there is one criteria (necessary but not sufficient) that refers to a higher than 100% cumulative inflation in a 3 year period.

SITUATION IN TURKEY:

- As of Feb 2022, cumulative inflation in Turkey during the last 3 years had already surpassed 100%. Audit firms have publicly stated that hyperinflation accounting should be applied in Turkey as of June 30th, 2022. IAS 29 prefers all affected entities to apply it at the same time (previous consensus among stakeholders).

BBVA Group will apply hyperinflationary accounting in Turkey¹ in 2Q22 with effects from Jan 1st, 2022 according to IAS 29 accounting standard.

¹ BBVA will apply IAS 29 to its Group entities in Turkey. IAS 29 will not apply to the operations outside Turkey, in particular to the financial statements of Garanti Bank in Romania and Garantibank International N.V in the Netherlands.

Hyperinflation Accounting (HA) main implications

1 BALANCE SHEET REVALUATION

- 1st implementation (Jan 1st, 2022): Positive in Equity & Capital (net of tax effect).
 - Non-Monetary Assets (NMA) revaluation from historical value based on accumulated inflation, with the limit of its fair value.
 - The value of the inflation linked bonds (CPI linkers) in the Held To Collect portfolio is updated according to the inflation rate by year end 2021 (vs as of Oct'21 previously).
- On-going quarterly revaluation of NMA based on inflation rate in the period, with the limit of its fair value. Positive in Equity & Capital (net of tax effect).

2 P&L RE-EXPRESSION

- Net Monetary Position (NMP) value loss due to the inflation in the period is registered in the P&L ("Other operating income and expenses" heading) with positive adjustment in "Other Comprehensive Income" (OCI). Negative on P&L. Neutral on Equity and Capital.
- CPI linkers accrual based on current period inflation is registered in "Other Operating Income and Expenses" heading (reclassified from NII) as they are considered a protective asset against inflation, partially offsetting the value loss of the NMP.
- Re-expression of all P&L headings according to end of period inflation.
- Re-expressed P&L is converted into € using the closing exchange rate (vs. average FX previously).

BBVA Turkey hyperinflation accounting impacts as of Mar'22 (pro-forma): Positive on Book Value, Negative on P&L

Positive impact on Book Value

BBVA Turkey: Book Value (€ Mn)

Negative impact on P&L from the Net Monetary Position loss (neutral on capital), partially offset by CPI linkers revenue

BBVA Turkey: Net Attributable Profit (€ Mn)

As of March 31st, 2022:

- Net Monetary Position: ~ 4.7 Bn€
- CPI linkers portfolio: ~ 3.6 Bn€

(*) The NMP loss is not tax deductible.

In 2022, earnings contribution from BBVA Turkey is expected to be non material according to our year end inflation forecast (around 60%)

BBVA Group hyperinflation accounting impacts as of Mar'22 (pro-forma): Positive on Capital, Negative on P&L

 Positive impact on Capital from Assets revaluation and other indirect impacts (such as a lower dividend accrual at a 50% pay-out ¹)

 Negative impact on P&L

¹ We are currently accruing dividends at 50%, which represents the upper part of our internal dividend policy (according to the ECB mechanism).

Non-Monetary Assets revaluation, based on the inflation trend, and P&L generation will continue to be positively reflected on Capital and TBV in the coming quarters (NMP loss is capital neutral)

BBVA Group's financial goals for 2024 remain unchanged

● Pre Hyperinflation Accounting in Turkey

Key Takeaways

- BBVA Group will apply hyperinflationary accounting in Turkey in 2Q22 with effects from Jan 1st, 2022 according to IAS 29 accounting standard.
- Hyperinflation accounting is a reexpression of the financial statements aiming to show them in real terms. Main impacts for BBVA Group pro-forma as of Mar'22 are:
 - Positive impact on Group's Capital (CET1 FL ratio +19 bps to 12.89%), coming mainly from the revaluation of the Non- Monetary Assets & CPI Linkers.
 - Negative impact on Net Attributable Profit (-324 Mn€ in 1Q22 to 1,326 Mn€), coming from the value loss of the Net Monetary Position (neutral on Equity).
- In 2022:
 - Earnings contribution from Turkey is expected to be non material.
 - Capital and TBV will continue to be positively affected by the revaluation of non-monetary assets and P&L generation (NMP loss is capital neutral).
- Our financial goals for 2024 remain unchanged.

MAIN P&L IMPACTS:

- CPI linkers income: accrual according to the current period inflation (22.8% in 1Q22), registered in “Other Income & Expenses” heading (+563 Mn€). Part of this income was previously accrued in NII (-212 Mn€) based on our 1Q22 inflation estimate at the beginning of the year (8.8%).
- Net Monetary Position: value loss registered in the “Other Income & Expenses” heading (-880 Mn€, non tax deductible) due to inflation rate in 1Q22 (with a positive adjustment in OCIs, so neutral on Equity).
- Minor P&L impacts related to: i) re-expression of all P&L headings according to the inflation rate until Mar 31st 2022, ii) conversion of re-expressed P&L into € using the closing exchange rate (vs. average FX previously) and, iii) higher amortization expenses after the non monetary assets revaluation.
